New York, N. Y.

My dear Mr. Mozian:

The two Armenian coins I gave were to be put up at auction at the next gathering affair for the Constantinople-Armenian Relief Society. They are not rare coins and would sell anywheres from 75¢ to $1.00 each. Mr. Kirk thought if put up the right way, they might bring several dollars which would help towards the fund.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Wood:

Your donation to the Constantinople Armenian Relief Society of two old Armenian coins reached me and accept my thanks for this kind contribution.

As this society has no library to keep souvenirs and medals, we are going to dispose of them the best way we can to get the cash and use the money for the charitable purpose that we work.

Will you be kind enough to let us know what these coins are worth, as we don't like to sell them less than what they are worth.

Very truly yours,
